OFFICIAL BIO

Kitty Chambliss is a polyamorous and sex-positive speaker, author, educator, relationship coach and activist who has been the founder and creator of the blog, podcast and revolution Loving Without Boundaries since 2012 with over 200 blog posts and 55 podcasts to date. Kitty's work has been featured in Stories From the Polycule, PostModern Woman, the YoushareProject, the upcoming book Coming Out Poly, and other publications around the globe. She has also been a special guest panelist and speaker on radio shows, international and national conferences, local poly meetup groups and more. She is also a dual-certified professional relationship coach having graduated from The Institute for Professional Excellence in Coaching (IPEC). Kitty has worked with many clients privately over the past four years and has helped everyone (from singles to triads and beyond) have more deeply fulfilling love lives. Kitty has made it her life's mission to make thriving relationships – even unconventional ones – attainable to everyone.

Within two years of authoring her blog, Kitty's work received the Bad Girl Bloggers Award and now has 4,000+ followers and growing. Within the first three weeks of production, her podcast reached the status of New & Noteworthy on iTunes under the categories of Sexuality and Health. She enjoys gathering interviews with world-renowned authors, speakers, educators, therapists and authorities in the fields of ethical non-monogamy, relationships, and even a "coming out coach."
